PLANNING BIG TARPON PARTY AT PASS CHRISTIAN

Party of Nation's Prominent Men to Try Skill—Event to Take Place in September—Will Bring to Gulf Coast Nation's Big Figures.

A party of the nation's prominent men will try their skill as fishermen against the mighty tarpon who inhabit the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, in front of Pass Christian, during the first week in September.

Plans for a tarpon fishing expedition were originated some time ago by Ex-Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, whose summer home is at Pass Christian. His suggestions were acted upon by citizens of Pass Christian and the officers of the Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce, and the Gulfport commercial body agreed to put the tarpon fishing party over in fine style.

Wednesday and Thursday, September 2 and 3, are the dates chosen for the event, and the commercial organizations of the two Coast cities have named committees to arrange details for the trip, and invitations have been sent out to two score or more of the nation's leaders to join in the expedition to attack the game fish of them all in its native haunts.

A partial list of those invited are: Vice President Charles G. Dawes, Postmaster General Harry S. New, Ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, Thomas G. Taggart of Indiana, Senator K. D. McKellar of Tennessee, Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, President W. L. Mapother of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, President Charles H. Markham of the Illinois Central Railroad, Benjamin H. Marshall of the new Edgewater Gulf Hotel, and congressmen and governors from several other States.

Ex-Governor Parker, himself, is a fisherman at heart, having been the captor of many silver monsters in the Pass Christian waters. Senator Pat Harrison, whose home is at Gulfport, is also interested in the sport and is using his influence to have the prominent men of the country take part in the expedition, extending many of the invitations personally.

It is planned to have moving pictures made of the expedition and of the actual catching of the tarpon, a picture of real action and unusual interest.

The "tarpon holes," some distance from Pass Christian, have long been famous for the huge fish caught there, averaging from 200 to 300 pounds and six or more feet in length. A lively time is promised to those who hook these silver kings.

Since the above was broadcasted President Markham, of the I. C., and others have signified their pleasure in accepting the invitation.

MAYOR BLAIZE TO BANISH ANTS.

The Mayor to Start Systematic Campaign of Slaughtering
the Pests.

With his usual tenacity of purpose and the welfare of the city ever in view, Mayor Blaize is on the eve of a disastrous campaign against the Argentine ant. At the instance of the mayor's appeal to the State Plant Board, that department sent Messrs. E. K. Bynum and K. Harmon, inspectors, to make a survey of the situation and assist in eradicating or controlling the pests of this city.

Thursday Messrs. Bynum and Harmon were with the mayor perfecting their plans of attack, and these gentlemen will appear before the Board of Mayor and Aldermen on September 5th at the regular meeting, to lay their plans before that body, and it goes without saying that the Board will be unanimous in favoring the plans to be adopted by the entomologists.

Mr. Bynum, in speaking of the numerous branches of the ant family, remarked that, so far, the Plant Board of this State has discovered more than fifty different species, but that the ones known as the "Argentine" are not only the greatest pests about a household, but are far more prolific than the other varieties, and will require a systematic campaign extending over some length of time before they are finally eradicated.

Mayor Blaize is determined that the campaign be started at the earliest possible moment, and with as small cost to the people as possible. The preliminary work, or survey, of the situation will not cost the people anything, and as the city will contract with the Plant Board, the cost of the poison will be held to a minimum.

The survey to be made by the inspectors is for the purpose of determining, as accurately as possible, the amount of poison required for the city.

Mayor Blaize hopes to have the survey completed next week.

CATHOLIC CIRCLE HONORS MRS. W. W. CALHOUN.

Catholic Neighborhood Circle No. 1 met at the residence of Mrs. G. W. Boh, in North Front street, on Thursday last. After the meeting the members present were entertained at a luncheon complimentary to Mrs. W. W. Calhoun, who is departing for New Orleans next week.

Mrs. Calhoun was presented a beautiful punch set as a token of the esteem in which she is held by her fellow workers, who fully appreciate the value of her zealous and self-sacrificing devotion to the good of the order.

Mrs. Calhoun's absence from the circle will leave a void hard to fill, and the regret of her many friends at her departure is most sincere.

The ball will be given in the K. of C. Home, in Main street, where it is claimed they have one of the best dance floors in the South. Perfect decorum is warranted by the committee and a successful entertainment is assured. The ball is for the benefit of the building fund of the order.

CARD PARTY AT B. W. Y. C.

For Convent Screening Fund.

There will be handsome prizes, one for each table. Both bridge and "five hundred" will be indulged in. The cause is one of the worthiest on the social calendar and should attract quite a gathering.

Kid's Corner

By
WINNIE S.
FLOWER LOVE.

(All children are invited to "Kid's Corner." Send in your little stories—not over 200 words—and your poetry. Write clearly and use the back of the paper only.)

Down in a vale, beneath the slope of a mountain, blossomed a little Blue-Bell. She had sweet honey-dew each morning for her breakfast, she was loved and cared for by all the other plants that grew about. The great trees, taking notice that beneath their branches there grew such a beautiful little flower, spread forth their mighty arms laden with leaves, to make shade for their little charge that she might be protected from the hot rays of the noontide sun.

Each morning the first rays of the rising sun would find little Blue-Bell and awaken her with their kisses, warm and tender. But with all the attention the little Miss received, she did not seem satisfied—there was something missing in life for her. She found herself longing for someone to call her very own; someone whose love would be hers alone.

Out in the babbling brook nearby there grew a beautiful Pond Lily, tall and stately he was, with skin of softest white and heart of gold. He, too, was lonely; he also craved to have someone love him and be his own.

It was the time of day when sunbeams from the heavens reached the earth in hot rays, that the Lily, standing at his full height, noticed the lonely blue flower swaying beneath the trees upon the bank, but he could not attract her attention, try as hard as he might.

One morning, after her breakfast of honey dew and her kiss from the early sun, she stretched herself to her full height in order to get the best view of her surroundings, her blue eyes caught sight of the tall and beautiful Lily rising above the waters of the brook. The Lily raised his head and saw the pretty Blue-Bell, and he nodded his greetings; she blushed and hid her face in her blue petals.

That night, instead of wrapping his robe close about him and going to sleep, the Lily kept awake so as to better watch over the little flower that he had found and loved. Ah, how he longed for the little Blue-Bell nestling over there so close to Mother Earth. She, too, was thinking of him and wanting him.

"Ah, how can I whisper my love?" said the Lily. "We are so far apart."

The breezes brought back the sigh of the Blue-Bell: "He is so handsome and proud, yet he has my heart, how I hope to be his own!"

"O, for a messenger swift," cried the Lily. "Maybe she loves me, who knows?"

One day a youth and his sweet heart were roaming through the dell near the babbling brook, and they noticed the pretty little Blue-Bell and the stately Lily; the boy gathered them for the maid. At last they were together.

"Ah, little Blue-Bell," whispered the dying Lily, "I've loved you so!"

"And I love you, too," responded the little flower as she crept closer to his side. She touched his pale cheek with her own, soft and tender. She kissed him—then withered and died.

NOW

Romance.
The "Jazz Girl."
Kings.

By BARTHUR BRISBANE.

Reading over the front page of a daily, with its scare-words of bold type—four murders—two robberies—two fires, two auto smash-ups—there in an obscure corner a beautiful romance of near half a century. The romance of life is ever blossoming—reminds one of the snowy lily daintily rising above the slimy filth of a reptile and vermin filled pond.

Romance, like the pond flower, bursts into blossom upon the bosom of an age filled with thievery, horror of an age and gruesome murder and unloved lust and sorrows. It is like unto the "Tempering of the Winds" for Romance to show fair and white above it all. The heart that is heavy, the brain that is tortured with the demands of a grasping world; the eyes that glare with a baleful and sardonic skepticism—all are tempered by the beauty of Romance when her fair face rises above the slough of despond.

This old world may continue with its wickedness till it becomes akin to Sodom and Gomorrah, but Romance will ever be present, for it is immortal and can never die.

The old and feeble, sitting alone with their thoughts, are often seen to smile as a memory arises. That memory is Romance and her gentle hand is making the descent of the aged into eternity easier.

Dorothy Ellington, the "Jazz Girl," who shocked even this calloused world by brutally slaying the mother who bore her and who vainly tried to rear her right—Dorothy whom the prison bars have tempered, is on the verge of freedom. In twelve months she may be paroled and again breathe the freeman's air.

She says she has learned her lesson in life and craves the quietness of her own fireside. Will conscience permit rest at that fireside, or shall the crackling flames of the hearth depict a mother prone and bleeding upon the floor with sad accusing eyes set upon her killer?

King Boris of Bulgaria has before him the death sentences of more than two hundred; the affixing of his signature is all that is required to finish these poor mortals on the scaffold. Robespierre, of France (though he was no king, his prerogatives were as great), never hesitated in signing the death warrants—till Fate played a prank on him and he signed his own, inadvertently.

Boris, however, balked after signing some five warrants, and the chances are that he will refuse to approve any more. Wholesale legal slaughter evidently has become repulsive to this king because he has stopped to think and weigh things in the human scale.

History has handed the world's kings a pretty cold deal, making them, with few exceptions, a blood-thirsty lot; till the modern children have put them in the ogress class. Now that an exception appears; a king who finds no joy in the taking of life, it is worthy of comment, coming particularly from one so closely allied to the bloody Turk in the minds of the people.

Switching from the old order of destroying men for political offences is a step in the right direction, and is highly commendable. It should tend to elevate the erstwhile bloody Bulgarians to a sober place in the world's society.

We were walking up Main street and had reached Second, when an unusual crash resounded; quickly glancing in the direction of the noise, we saw a mighty oak tree being felled, the giant of near a century in age had received its death blow, had shuddered and toppled to the ground from whence it sprung. Around the foot of a great gnarling hole had been dug to undermine it, sharp axes of the workmen had reached its vitals and it lie there like a stricken monster.

Progress had demanded its death, likewise that of two more that stood in the path of Progress.

As we gazed upon the mighty fall, the sentiment of the ages, it seemed so like a murder had been committed, a sacrifice against Nature, and we felt a resentment arise in our heart. But, what will you do? Progress had willed the death, that the march of civilization be not retarded, and the soft-hearted must abide thereby.

A street was to be paved, sidewalks to be laid and the mighty oak was the obstacle in the pathway; therefore the sacrifice. Progress, that force that dams and changes the course of great rivers, that levels the mountain and harnesses the sea, could not even hesitate at the sacrifice of three forest giants. Civilization must continue her march and Progress will permit no obstacles.

BIG DANCE TONIGHT.

The First Ward Social Club are giving a dance tonight at their hall in Dunbar avenue, corner Leonard avenue. Dile Serenaders will render the dance selections and a good time is promised to everybody.

The following is the committee of arrangement: Julius Schwall, chairman; Elmer Bourgeois, Wm. Wandell, Emil Adick, Jr., John January, Conrad Adick, ex-officio.

City Echoes.

Someone has made the prophecy that Biloxi will be the pleasure spot of the Gulf Coast, Gulfport the big commercial center and Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis the exclusive residential section for the tourists who will come South for the winter. Waveland, too, will come in for much patronage. The Mississippi Gulf Coast will be the brightest strip of this country.

It is said the Illinois Central Railroad Company has a force of artists and advertising men at work preparing attractive posters in colors and other literature in anticipation of the tourist trade to the Mississippi Gulf Coast next winter. The Chicago Tribune says such advertising campaign for attractiveness and thoroughness has never been planned and executed. This will be good news, for this section will vastly benefit thereby.

Dunbar avenue since the boom has come in for much attention. In fact, some of the biggest buys have been made in this section and in time Dunbar avenue is destined to become the most valuable and attractive boulevard in the city. The thoroughfare is wide, naturally well drained and the scenery of the scenery, there seems to nature's best. Dunbar avenue will soon be taking the palm award from other streets that have been holding the attention and admiration of many.

With the completion of the paving of Court street, that new avenue of ingress and egress ought to prove in time immensely popular, a regular court for beautiful bungalows and other home structures. Court street is going to be exclusive; centrally located, yet private. It is in one of the prettiest settings hereabouts, and fortunate is he who will have his domicile located in its confines. The community will owe a vote of thanks in time to the owners of Gray Hotel for putting this splendid site on the market and opening Court street.

Although the season is slightly beginning to wane, it is noted there are more visitors here now than at any time during the entire summer season. Both Bay St. Louis and Waveland have always proven equally popular, and with the improvements to follow, namely the Waveland sea wall and beach road, the Bay St. Louis bridge and hard surfaced streets and road next year, should prove a banner one. We have, indeed, to look forward to and expect next summer, and there is every reason that not only will present value be guaranteed but that there will be a decided amelioration.

The cement sidewalks that will follow the paved streets of Bay St. Louis will add much to the values and the general comfort of the public, to say nothing of the pedestrian who too frequently is forced to take to the streets in the absence of any sidewalks, and thereby put the auto driver in jeopardy. It is quite a stride to safety and the hope is expressed that no one will fail to build the sidewalk in front of his or her respective property. We are not so much trying to make the city of Bay St. Louis as we are seeking for the fitness of things, and above all, with that ever important slogan in mind, "Safety First."

With the activities of the Isaac Walton League and the co-operation of the Board of Supervisors, it is expected Jordan river and other like streams will in time be stocked with much fish and the former fishing grounds which so many have come miles to enjoy will again afford the pleasures of other days. President Leonard, of the Rotary Club, has well said that many visitors who do not come now would come every week-end to fish on Jordan river and by spending the week-ends here would attract other visitors, to say nothing of the patronage they would confer on local hotels, tradesmen, etc. Just as we spare the trees, the birds, we must spare the fish. It is well to conserve our resources, to enhance and under the proper legal restrictions.

Bay St. Louis is justly proud of its banks. Recently, according to published statements, the Hancock County Bank went over the two million dollar mark in total resources, while the Merchants Bank and Trust Company showed a total of nearly one million dollar mark. These statements speak well for the immediate management of the respective banks and also for the city of Bay St. Louis and Hancock county, the people of both institutions of business making it possible. These are surely causes for congratulation, and the Echo would not be remiss in its duty for so doing. We certainly wish to compliment both institutions and hope their growth will continue at the rapid pace over which the present figures have been made. Both are a credit to the community.

Just when the first car will go over the Bay St. Louis bridge is not known, but in due time Harrison and Hancock counties will be connected and the flow of traffic will be uninterrupted. It will be a most valuable asset for this city and the cities across the water. Its value, in fact, will prove inestimable. But the romance of crossing the water by boat, as at present, will be gone. Why does one enjoy crossing the bosom of the water with its caressing ripples and zephyrs, aboard the graceful Cecil N. Bean? The bridge will indeed be a thing "devotedly to be wished for," but the romance of crossing the bay on the ferry will be no more, though ever a pleasant memory. Captain Drackett brought the ferry to Bay St. Louis and built the trade, the trade called for the bridge and the Board of Supervisors has proven equal to the occasion, and best of all, made it a free bridge. The toll system would have killed its usefulness.

FLAX GETS TWO YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Murder Charge Changed and Pleas of Guilty Entered—Light Sentence Given.

Will Flax, one-eyed negro, who shot and killed Farrel Green, another negro, during a brawl at a dance on Monday, May 4th last, in this city, was sentenced to serve two years in the State penitentiary.

The original charge of murder was changed to that of manslaughter on recommendation of Prosecutor Gex, to which Flax pleaded guilty.

Before imposing the sentence, Judge Graham, ordering the prisoner to stand up, asked if he had anything to say before the sentence of the court was given.

"I-a-s sir, Judge, I has; I wants to say dat I in reas'n to go an' serve ma time as in Court says, an' further mo' dat I spects to be a good man an' give nobody no trouble. I wants dese good white folks to do all dey kin fo' me, cause I sho means to act right. De fac' is, Judge, I could be trusted to go up to dat pen all by myself, sho' could."

The crime that Flax was convicted and sentenced for was the culmination of bad blood that existed between the two for some time. Flax had been arrested for assault, and Green was convicted for carrying concealed weapons. Meeting later, when Flax was in the company of a woman who figured in the case, it was alleged by the defendant that Green attempted to assault Flax with a knife—but the testimony did not bear it out—whereupon Flax shot and killed him.

The sentence is considered extremely light.

BAY ST. LOUIS GROWING.

Visitor, After Absence of Several
provement.

A visitor to Bay St. Louis a few days ago, who had not been here for several years, remarked there was no doubt Bay St. Louis had grown considerably. "Outside of the one or two hotels that were here then, one could not get a meal much less a cup of coffee anywhere in the town. The stranger, if he were here only for the day or a shorter visit, could not procure a meal unless he registered at the hotel. Now, the city has several first-class restaurants, well kept, well run and seemingly all are doing a splendid business. It is to the credit of Bay St. Louis that the many visitors may find such accommodations."

The visitor is correct. Outside of Gilmore's Cafe, where one could get a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee, there was not a restaurant in town. Now we have the Peacock Tea Room, the Shamrock, Martin's Nook Cafe, and Manier's Cafe. There is, indeed, quite a difference between then and now.

Dr. Joseph Muller, who resides in Citizen street, is to be congratulated on the success he has made in remodeling and renovating his summer home, which is now presenting a most attractive appearance. The dwelling was raised six feet and the lower floor is enclosed and will be used for general purposes, while the main residence will be upstairs. The plan is very handsome and carried out in a manner as to merit the owner and those doing the work much credit.

Work on the Catholic Church of Our Lady of the Gulf is progressing satisfactorily. Contractor Geary and his force of men are now making appreciable headway. It was discovered the roof had sagged considerably and was in need of considerable attention and other parts of the church also called for attention since it was first built seventeen years ago. It is planned to have it finished for the fall. Father Gmelch expresses much satisfaction over the results already achieved. The finishing of the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf is no small job by any means. It is noted with interest that every detail of the work is gone over in a careful and most workmanlike manner.

Having recently sold their beautiful home on the extreme north end of Bay St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Norton will leave here with reluctance. This, perhaps, is one of the finest and most unique homes on the Coast. The basement is not only attractively furnished but is reserved for week-end guests, a place where the owner and enjoy rest and recreation, both summer and winter, since there is an attractive open fireplace therein. The second floor is so arranged the dwelling can be made into so many rooms by the arrangement of sliding doors and walls. Mr. and Mrs. Norton planned the place and have enjoyed its occupancy. The new purchaser is W. A. Cuevas, of Pass Christian, who purchased this with other choice residential property recently.

Dr. David G. Williams, of New Orleans, and summer resident of Clermont Harbor, before moving from Pass Christian two years since, recently purchased the property at the mouth of Jordan river, originally known as the Bayhi homestead, and is having extensive improvements made thereto. In fact, the Doctor, a man of taste and ideas, is having the place extensively treated and transforming it into an almost new dwelling. There are weeks of work yet to be accomplished. Dr. and Mrs. Williams will be "at home" to their many friends. That section of Bay St. Louis is one of the most attractive and commands value and in time with better roads will out compare. Dr. Williams is the well-known optometrist located on the ground floor of the D. H. Holmes store, at New Orleans.

AVERAGE COST FOR OPERATION OF CARS IN MISS. IS GIVEN

It Is Officially Placed at $50 Per Year for Each Person in Mississippi—Autos on Roads for 1925 Estimated at 160,000.

We hear a great deal about high taxes, but not much complaint about the high cost of cars, yet Mississippi people are spending about $50 per capita per annum for the operation of automobiles, according to Secretary of State Jos. W. Power.

A special from Jackson dated the 20th says:

"The average cost each year of operating automobiles in Mississippi per person is $50.80, and the total expenditures for one year made by Mississippians is estimated at more than $61,004,241.66, according to estimates made by Joe Power, secretary of state."

"The number of automobiles on Mississippi roads during 1925 is estimated at 160,000, according to Mr. Power. The initial cost of these automobiles, both low and high priced cars as figured by experts at $800 each, amounts to $128,000,000."

"The annual cost of cars in Mississippi is $12,666,666.66 each year. Add to this cost of re-tiring 160,000 cars at $75 per car, $12,000,000. A line at an average price of 22 cents should then be added, and since the records of the auditor of public accounts show that from June 1, 1921, to June 1, 1925, $3,300,000 gallon were consumed (this item costs to $18,333,360.)"

ROTARY CLUB DOING GOOD WORK.

Several Movements Initiated. Much Work Undertaken and Accomplished.

Bay St. Louis made a right stride when it went on record in organizing and procuring a charter for a Rotary Club, a member of International Rotarion. This is one of the most progressive moves the city in banded effort have made in a long time, and already the benefit to be had therefrom is beginning to tell. There is a better understanding between the business men who represent its membership. Already the Bay St. Louis Rotary has initiated several movements. There is much work undertaken and accomplished, even though all of it does not go into mention print. There are twenty-five members, the limit for charter membership, and after that only three new members a month may be proposed. A candidate for membership must be asked to join. He must represent some profession or business. His application is finally passed upon by headquarters.

SCREENING OF ST. JOSEPH'S ACADEMY.

List of Contributions, Bids, Etc.,
Will Appear in Next Week's

All bids on the screening of St. Joseph's Academy will appear in next week's issue of The Echo, together with a list of all contributions, individual, Neighborhood Church Club, etc.

There remains yet a goodly number and all donations for the Academy

The mayor of Schoepensstedt, Germany, Herr Baron, is a believer in sports and is a pretty good sport himself. After a speech at the opening of a municipal swimming pool, in which he praised athletics in general and swimming in particular, he gave the enterprise an unusual send-off by plunging into the pool, toggled in evening clothes and top hat. His performance won him many lusty "Hoos" and no doubt made him solid with the proletarian voters.

Officers of a French transport were astonished by their discovery of a reef 50 miles long in the Bay of Biscay, where the navigational charts show a depth around 2,000 fathoms. Scientists were set agog, had visions of the long-lost continent Atlantis staging a come-back. An official investigation will be made to determine whether France is to have a new province rise out of the sea or the chart makers merely made a bad guess.

When the city of Cerignola, Italy, was shaken by an earthquake recently, about 20,000 terrorized inhabitants paraded the streets carrying a picture of Holy Mary of Riplata, the city's traditional protectress, who was implored to stay the trembler's destruction. In due time the quake subsided, happiness reigned, faith was vindicated. California cities nearly all have patron saints and angels. The inference is plain enough.

Now comes one J. P. Blair, of New York, and others with a condemnation of the song, "The Star Spangled Banner," "with its words breathing hatred of Britain and its music borrowed from a foul English drinking song." Paid advertising has been employed in metropolitan newspapers to voice the protest against what has come to be considered the national anthem. It appears, however that the protest has come a little late, although it may give an excuse for organizing a new reform society.

A peasant named Grachev had long cherished a hatred of his fellow villagers for a real or fancied grievance in the little town of Ivanovo, Russia, composed of fourteen houses. While the rest were in the fields he set fire to all their homes and met their hurried return with shotgun fire, killing 17 and wounding others. Thirteen of the 14 houses were destroyed. Satisfied, no doubt, with his revenge, Grachev made his escape. The only moral in this, perhaps, is that a vicious minority may be extremely dangerous.

PLUCKY SWIMMER FAILS.

Sharing the fate of every woman who has so far tried to swim the English Channel, Miss Gertrude Ederle, the plucky American girl, lost her battle with wind and wave in her attempt to conquer that turbulent stretch of water a few days ago.

Although she was conceded to be the most promising of several women who have tried to swim the channel this year, a storm breaking when she was only a few miles from her goal made it impossible for her to continue.

The difficulty in swimming the English channel arises from its extremely cold waters, strength of its tides and frequency of sudden storms, such as thwarted Miss Ederle's brave effort. The distance across at its narrowest part, where swimming attempts are made, is only 21 miles, but because of the swift tides the swimmer must actually cover between 40 and 50 miles.

Of the many men and women who have tried the feat, only five have succeeded, the first having been Captain Matthew Webb, an Englishman, in August, 1875, in 21 hours, 45 minutes, covering an estimated distance of 46 miles. His performance stood as unique for 36 years, until 1911, when Thomas Burgess was successful. In 1923 three were added to the list, Henry Sullivan, of Lowell, Mass.; Enrique Tirabocchi of Argentina, and Charles Toth, of Boston. Tirabocchi made the crossing in 16 hours and 33 minutes.

The attraction of the channel swim as a goal probably lies in the fact that while it is one of the most difficult of human feats, it is just within the range of possibility to accomplish. Actual danger to those who attempt it is not particularly great, as boats and other fresh, strong swimmers always keep close at hand on the way across.

Disappointed but not discouraged by her failure, Miss Ederle declares that she will try again.

OUR PRIVATE ARMIES.

Never before was so much money spent nor so many men employed in this country for law enforcement nor was there ever so much lawlessness as now.

Bankers of several States have organized unofficial forces for protection against bandits; private detectives are employed by the hundreds to safeguard persons and property; fur merchants of New York are said to have organized a special force of armed guards, and the jewelers are about to follow suit; a nationwide organization of citizens, sometimes masked, here and there takes a hand to correct alleged vice and crime; associations wage war on automobile thieves—and there are perhaps other similar movements less prominent.

Whether any real headway is being made, even with all these private agencies, to supplement the national State and local officers of the law, is difficult to say with assurance.

The ever pressing question of why so much lawlessness exists has never been satisfactorily answered. We used to think it was merely an aftermath of the war, but a new generation of criminals has come into action since the war. Other countries that were immeasurably more affected by the war than the United States exhibit no such disorderly tendencies.

So serious has the situation become that every thoughtful citizen must view it with deep concern. Has government broken down, that we must depend on private armies to preserve the peace? And even with these, will life and limb and property continue to be menaced at every turn?

THE EDITORIAL PAGE.

According to opinions expressed by qualified observers recently, the editorial pages of American newspapers are regaining the prestige that was supposed to have declined during the heyday of yellow journalism a few years ago.

This renaissance of the editorial page is accounted for largely by the changed character of the editorials themselves. The editorial of the present is employed primarily for the purpose of conveying information and interpreting the news. It is less devoted to political and class propaganda.

While newspapers differ widely with respect to editorial policies, there is an unmistakable tendency toward a more accurate statement of the facts and a fairer attitude in their interpretation than was the case in the past. The conscientious editor of today would not think of deliberately misleading his readers as to the facts upon which his editorial is based, even though he may not draw conclusions with which all agree.

Broadminded readers (and this class is increasing) do not object to opinions differing from their own, provided they feel that such opinions are honestly arrived at. They want facts above all else and the newspaper that strives to give these faithfully in connection with its editorial interpretations of the news will never lack for appreciation of its editorial page.

Crime waves seem to maintain a perpetual high tide.

SCHOOL REFORM IN TEXAS.

Many who have become convinced that our public school curricula include much that is of little value to pupils will note with interest the efforts in the direction of school reform now being made in Texas.

Some time ago the Texas Educational Survey, after an exhaustive study, made a report embodying various recommendations, among which were suggestions for a modification of the high school curriculum.

It found, for instance, that algebra was being studied by more pupils than all the natural sciences put together. It appears that mathematics has been the particular hobby of educators in that State. The Survey also found that there was more stress placed on Latin and Spanish than on literature in the vernacular; that history courses emphasized ancient and medieval periods, while neglecting modern and American history and civics. It found that the high school curriculum was designed more as a preparation for college than as a preparation for life, for the vast majority who will never go to college.

Commenting on the report, Superintendent Duncan, of Lubbock, is quoted as being in favor of substituting "the practical subjects that will function in everyday life for those that have only a supposed disciplinary value." Consequently algebra, geometry and trigonometry will be stricken from the list of subjects required for high school graduation in Lubbock.

It is interesting that at least one State will no longer make a fetish of higher mathematics, which, however indispensable to the few in certain professions, can be of no practical value to the many. A knowledge of how to spell English words in common use would be of more benefit to the average person than, for example, the ability to comprehend abstruse problems of calculus.

UNPROFITABLE CUSTOMERS.

Every small store, as well as many large ones, have to serve a lot of customers under circumstances which involve a loss to the merchant, especially when insignificant purchases must be delivered, or charged, or both.

It frequently happens that the service required in handling small items costs as much or more than the goods themselves. A trade journal recently published a story which illustrates the point:

A little girl was sent to buy five cents worth of asafetida, to be charged to her mother's account. Asking the name of the mother, the druggist was told that it was Mrs. Schumann Schlickemier. He thought for an instant and then said to the child: "Oh, take it for nothing and run along. It's worth more than a nickel for me to spell 'asafetida' let alone that name."

Another paradox is that hot words cool the flames of love.

A TALK WITH A BAY ST. LOUIS MAN

Mr. Surcouf Tells Something of Interest to Bay St. Louis Folks.

There's nothing more convincing than the statement of someone you know and have confidence in. That's why this talk with Mr. Surcouf, of Valentine street, should be mighty helpful here in Bay St. Louis.

Paul Surcouf, painter, 324 Valentine St., Bay St. Louis, says: "My kidneys acted too frequently and I had to get up during the night. I had a dull ache in my back and if I stooped sharp pains caught me and I could hardly straighten. Doan's Pills from DeMontluzin Sons' Drug Store, cured me of the attack."

Mr. Surcouf is only one of many Bay St. Louis people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Pills. "If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S PILLS, the same that Mr. Surcouf had—the remedy backed by home testimony, 50 cents at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. "When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name."

There's a new way to drive. You can't beat it. I can drive it for hours without tiring. Can I get delivery tomorrow? My husband bought a Buick and now my driving and parking troubles are over. It's a Buick. Buick is a lovely Buick. Why you stop out it, it leaves. How can Buick give so much water can at such a low price? I have discovered it! Buick a new power. It's a lot more looking than any car I've seen. I never thought I could get such having of such a price. My friends are amazed when they drive with me.

Ship NOW! the Railroads Face an Enormous Task

Statisticians and well posted traffic authorities, both in and out of the railroad business, have estimated that two million more freight cars will be required in 1925 than in 1924.

This estimate is supported by the fact that during the first eighteen weeks of the current year, nearly half a million more cars were used than during the same period last year.

Fall stocks of merchandise and bumper crops must be transported. The railroads have the biggest task on their hands that they have ever had to accomplish. You can help by ordering shipments out now, before the October and November rush comes on.

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has added to its equipment 2,000 freight cars and 25 engines since the first of the year, representing an investment of $4,700,000. This railroad is trying to do its best.

Firestone Service

to Highway Transportation

25 years of anticipating the requirements of motorists—making manufacturing processes more certain—producing a higher standard of quality—25 years of unswerving adherence to the Firestone pledge, "Most Miles per Dollar"—summarizes Firestone's record of service to car owners.

Firestone factories have grown from a small building approximately 75 x 150 feet to mammoth plants having floor area of over 60 acres—from a capital of $50,000 to over $50,000,000—from an annual sales volume of $100,000 to over $100,000,000—all in the short period of 25 years.

This Firestone record could only have been made through furnishing the public with outstanding values and is, consequently, your assurance of quality and lowest prices.

If you would like to know more of this wonderful record, ask your Firestone dealer to send you an illustrated folder.

With today's high cost of crude rubber and other raw materials, Firestone's opportunity to serve the public was never better, due to its great volume and special advantages in buying, manufacturing and distribution.

BASEBALL

SUCCUMB TO SUMMERS.

Saucier Stars Defeated by Lakeshore.
Score 7 to 1—Pitcher Summers
Twirls Masterful Ball
For Visitors.

Sugar is sweet. Nobody denies that fact. But, friends, the Saccharine matter contained in Revenge is so far ahead of the stuff used in coffee and tea, that there's really no comparison; now, we are ready to prove our assertion and by no less experienced personages than the baseball team that hails from the fair, breeze-swept burg of Lakeshore, in this sovereign state.

After a double dose of the gall of defeat from the aggregation of sphere-tossers representing the Bay, the hard working sports of the above mentioned sister-village journeyed down to Rock-a-Chaw Park on Sunday last and garnered in to their bosom a victory that was the balm that healed all the sore spots that ever pestered that Lakeshore frame. An ointment that soothed the spirit, that put new life into the blood courses of the human.

Summer is usually a hot proposition, but one human, bearing the cognomen of "Summers" was a hotter still; in fact, a perfect creating concern. Mr. Summers was the twirler who camped on the pitching mound for the visitors; he was the tower of strength that disposed of the hitherto unkillable jinx that hovered over his team. He pitched a masterful brand of ball and no one there is who can say that he did not deserve to be the winner.

The Saucier Stars are noted for their swatting propensities, for their prowess on the diamond, but against this Summers man they were at a total loss. Four hits, a couple of singles, a double and a triple, spread over three innings, was the sum total of their achievements, while fifteen fly balls sailed out to be retrieved in by waiting mitts, and five strikeouts were suffered. It was simply a case of too much Summers, he had more stuff on the ball than a banker puts on a mortgage.

The "Giants" played and hit behind their twirler, too, don't forget that, and had only one error tagged up against them. That means a great deal to a pitcher, it sobers and steadies him wonderfully.

Portside Berg started for the locals and went till the fourth, in which frame the visitors got two singles and a double and scored two runs. Cotton Collier replaced him in the fifth and held them down to three hits until the ninth when they piled onto his delivery for five hits and four runs.

It was an off-day for the Stars, Lady Luck was riding on the Lakeshore wagon and the jinx had the Indian sign on the lochia. With the Summers person controlling everything that could be put on the horsehide, and a line up that's never been the same in any two games, there wasn't anything but shells in the basket of eggs.

The Game by Innings.
Lakeshore, first: Lafontaine, first man up, took the whiff route and ambled back to the bench. Fayard hit to third and was known out at first; Ladner went down, second to first. No hits, no runs.

Stars: Russell Ladner, leading off, laced a triple through short; Schwartz raised a long fly to keep right, and Ladner raced home after the catch. Blaize popped to third. Mares slammed a grounder towards second; Joulain essayed to stop it and the ball went through his legs for a hit; Mares tried to advance by the theft route, but was caught at second. Two hits, one run.

L.S., second: Summers reached the first station when a pop fly was missed; Russ was given free transportation; Summers got caught out between the bags; Green flew to Schwartz, and Joulain went down, pitcher to first. No hits, no runs.

Stars: Mouloux died, second to first; Wally Bontemps went safe when Fayard popped his short fly, but died on the steal. Leroy Bontemps slashed a double to left, but expired on the keystone when Jimmy Collier went out, pitcher to first. One hit, no runs.

L.S., third: Johnson flew to second; Cuevas was safe on Bontemps' error, but Lafontaine flew to Ladner and Fayard hit to pitcher. No hits, no runs.

Stars: Berg fanned, Ladner flew to center and Schwartz whiffed. No hits, no runs.

L.S., fourth: Here's where the visitors got onto Berg's submarine ball, and started the curtain raiser. Ladner singled to center. Summers hit to short and forced Ladner. Russ did the same for Summers, but stole second; Green got hit by a pitched ball. Joulain doubled to left, scoring Russ. Johnson singled to left and Green tallied. Cuevas whiffed. Three hits, two runs.

Stars: The flies had it in this inning. Blaize flew to second. Mares singled to right, but died when both Mouloux and Wally popped. One hit, no runs.

L.S., fifth: Cotton Collier takes the mound. Lafontaine out to Schwartz. Fayard hit to third and beat the throw to first. Ladner went safe on a dinky to short and Fayard scored on the play. Summers fanned and Russ went out, second to first. One hit, one run.

Stars: Leroy Bontemps, Jimmy and Cotton Collier flew out.
L.S., sixth: Green fanned. Joulain grounded to Schwartz at first. Johnson laced a double to center, but lost the hit by failing to touch first, and was put out on return of ball. No hits, no runs.

Stars: Short and snappy. Ladner whiffed. Schwartz flew to second and Blaize flew to center.

L.S., seventh: Cuevas down, second to first. Lafontaine tripped to right center, but both Fayard and Ladner died by the whiff route. One hit, no runs.

Stars: Mares and Mouloux fanned and Wally flew to right.

L.S., eighth: Summers was out, second to first. Russ singled through second. Green hit to short and forced Russ. Green went out at second. One hit, no runs.

Stars: Leroy flew to second, Jim Collier did the same to short and Cotton was out, second to first.

L.S., ninth: All Star hope died when this inning was over, for it cinched the game. Joulain singled through short. Johnson singled to center. Cuevas hit safe to right and filled the bags, with none down. Lafontaine singled to right, scoring Joulain. Fayard hit infield and all went safe when no one covered first. Ladner popped to Blaize, Summers fanned. Russ singled to left and scored Cuevas and Lafontaine. Green ended the agony by going out, third to first. Five hits, four runs.

Lakeshore... 0 0 2 1 0 0 4 — 7 10 1
S. Stars... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 — 1 4 3

The flies had their own good time at the game; fifteen were hit to the waiting mitts of the fielders during the game. There must have been an airplane attachment to the balls that Summers twirled.

A regular line-up means a great deal to a bunch of players. Changing the batting order often is not conducive to much success.

Before the game the Lakeshore lads were scarce on the mazzuma; they surprised themselves considerably.

The Rock-a-Chaws of Stanislaus open up baseball to finish the season on September 12th. Their opponents have not as yet been named.

A promising bunch of youngsters will report to Commagere for all branches of sport this term, and the chances of selecting winning teams for the old Cardinal and Black won't appear so difficult.

How Long Should a Wife Live?

(From an Address
By BRUCE BARTON
Before the Forty-Eighth Convention
National Electric Light Association,
San Francisco,
1925.)

MY friends, my subject today is, "How Long Should a Wife Live?" My remarks will be brief and informal, and before I reach the end I will refer to the title and answer the question which it raises.

I am emboldened to refer to the ladies because I have been given the privilege of knowing, in advance, something of the wonderful message which Mrs. Sherman, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is to deliver to you tomorrow regarding a nation-wide survey of home conditions. What a vision is spread out before us by the plan which she will outline? If every home in the United States were as well equipped with household conveniences as the best home, what a difference in their children's lives!

Some years ago there was a celebration in Boston in honor of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers. After several very laudatory speeches had been made by men, a bright and vivacious woman was called on. Said she:

"I am tired of hearing so many praises of the Pilgrim Fathers. I want to say a word about the Pilgrim Mothers. They had to endure all that the Pilgrim Fathers endured, and they had to endure the Pilgrim Fathers besides."

Pilgrim Mothers Died Young.

Do you know what happened to the Pilgrim Mothers, my friends? I will tell you. They died. They died young. It took two or three of them to bring up one family. The fathers were tough and lived long, but work and hardships made short work of the wives. Listen a minute:

Of the men who graduated from Yale between 1701 and 1745 418 became husbands. What happened to their wives?

33 wives died before they were 25 years old,

55 died before they were 35 years old,

59 died before they were 45 years old.

Those 418 husbands lost 147 wives before full middle age.

Harvard wives fared no better. Take the Harvard class of 1671 as typical. It had eleven graduates, of whom one died a bachelor at the age of twenty-four. Of the remaining ten

4 were married twice,

2 were married three times.

For ten husbands, therefore, there were eighteen wives. It has been truly said that you can measure the height of any civilization by the plane upon which its women live. Measured by that standard we have made great progress in the United States, but we have not made enough. An electric motor which runs a washing machine or a vacuum cleaner works for three or five cents an hour. There are still millions of women doing this work which motors can do; selling their time at coolie wages of three cents an hour, having to neglect the highest work entrusted to human being, the work of motherhood.

Some day you gentlemen expect to have every home in the United States electrified. My friends, why should you wait until some day? Why don't you do it immediately, next year, within the next twelve months? Does that seem impossible? I tell you that I believe it would be possible, by the right sort of concerted advertising, to arouse such a sentiment in the minds of the women of this country that every woman would realize that it is beneath the dignity of human life for her to work for three cents an hour.

Short, Fleeting Years.

The time in the life of a child when a mother can exert her influence is terribly brief. "Give me a child until he is seven years old," a great philosopher said, "and I care not who has him afterwards." Seven years in which to mold character; seven short, fleeting years. What a tragedy that a single moment of these years should be wasted in work which an electric machine can do!

It is a thrilling subject. It opens a whole new world of opportunity to us; it gives us a new interest, a new enthusiasm. Every day we lose in this business of electrifying homes costs the nation in its richest wealth—the training of children, the lives and happiness of mothers. The title of this speech is, "How Long Should a Wife Live?" The answer, in the old days, was "not very long." The homes of those days had two or three mothers and no motors. The home of the future will lay all of its tiresome, routine burdens on the shoulders of electrical machines, freeing mothers for their real work, which is motherhood. The mothers of the future will live to a good old age and keep their youth and good

CITY ECHOES.

Go out to Rock-a-Chow Park next Sunday and see the Saucier Stars in action against the Iten-Tribune baseball team.

Miss Eryn Y. Saucier has left for the Crescent City, where she will be the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Henry Lader, for the next fortnight.

Mr. Joseph Mares, after a full season at the Bay, will leave for a resumption of his studies at Spring Hill College, Mobile, next week.

Mr. David Keiffer, after spending some time as the guest of friends here will leave for New Orleans on Tuesday in order to get prepared for his return to St. Stanislaus on the eighth.

The wise investor who purchased last spring is in time for congratulation. We can never expect to go back to the old prices for realty. The boom was worth much for the reason it stabilized values.

Miss Violet and her brother, Master Willie Robert, of New Orleans, are the charming guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Ivy, at their villa in Second street.

Mrs. Octave Fayard has as her guests, 307 Main street, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Alexander, Mr. Hogan, of Little Rock; Mrs. Colgate and daughters, of Shreveport, La.; Messrs. La. False and Mains, of Alexandria, La.

Mr. E. C. Boudreau, with his charming wife and baby son, have engaged apartments for the balance of the season at the Connors villa, Mr. Boudreau is the assistant chief of the pure food department in New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Marengo, with a party of friends from the Crescent City, motored to Ocean Springs last Sunday. They returned the same day and report a very enjoyable trip, with excellent roads all the way.

Mr. M. J. Cousins, chief deputy collector of internal revenue at New Orleans, is here with his family and has taken the Tebo cottage, in Union street. Mr. Cousins is a great admirer of the Bay and plans to spend his summers here in the future.

Mr. C. W. Daniel, of the Portland Cement Association, of New Orleans, registered at the Weston, was an interesting caller at The Echo office. Mr. Daniel is here by appointment with two local gentlemen who contemplate the erection of an office building in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Voorhies, of New Orleans, are spending the weekend in Bay St. Louis, with relatives in Union street. They will make the return trip to New Orleans by auto next Monday, accompanied by Mrs. O'Keefe, who has been spending the summer here.

Mr. Gus Fayard, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Octave Fayard, returned from a motor trip to Bethel, Tenn. Miss Cecile Fayard making the trip from Bethel with a party of friends, motoring through Tennessee, Kentucky, into Ohio and Indiana, returning to Birmingham, where she was the guest of Miss Pauline Minion.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Ray Cary, who reside at Slidell, La., recently had the stark visit them and brought Ray Burton Cary, who was born at Hotel Dieu, New Orleans. Mr. Cary will be remembered as a former resident of Bay St. Louis, an attaché of The Echo for over five years. This is thus a nice little family of two boys in the happy home.

Misses Thelma Egan, Miriam and Olivia Engman left on Thursday, August 30th, for an extended trip through the East. The party will visit all points of interest, stopping at Cleveland, Ohio, Niagara Falls and concluding the trip to New York by a water journey down the Hudson. The young ladies will be absent for two weeks.

Messrs. E. Leonard and Arthur Scaife, accredited delegates from the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, leave on September 3rd for Alexandria, La., to attend the convention of the 17th district Rotary International, on September 4th and 5th instant. Dr. Richard G. Cox, of Gulf Park College, is the governor of the seventeenth district and will preside at the convention.

The Weston Hotel plans to make its new swimming pool quite popular for winter guests next season. It is planned to enclose the place with glass and hot pipes will heat the water to any desired degree. Winter bathing is always popular, especially in the open as this arrangement will practically afford. The hotel management is to be congratulated on its enterprise.

It is interesting to note the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club has taken up the subject of the resumption of the L. & N. Wednesday excursion, and the hope is expressed that next season the service will be resumed. The Mississippi Gulf Coast benefited vastly by the operation of the Wednesday excursion train, in fact so much so that it is well worthy of a continued effort made in order we may gain enjoy this benefit.

It is safe to say that no one man has contributed more to the upbuilding of the city of Bay St. Louis in a material way than R. C. Engman, who over a period of many years has built many dwellings and is still continuing. He has amply shown his faith in Bay St. Louis realty and in the city's future. There are many bungalows, good looking and substantial houses built and owned by him, and best of all, he is still building. Surely, he is backing his faith in Bay St. Louis.

The shore line across from Bay St. Louis, for many years a barren picture of white sand with a pine tree background, is rapidly changing. There are many new dwellings erected in that section recently and in time it is not too much of a hope to express the entire stretch facing Bay St. Louis, like on this side, will be well built with dwellings and resort places. It is surprising this beauty spot has not before this been embraced in the great scheme of improvements.

Among our many summer residents are Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Korn-doffer, who have a comfortable and hospitable home on the beach front and Citizen street. They journey to Bay St. Louis every summer from their home in Natchez and no private family have as many friends as house guests to visit them from time to time. Mr. and Mrs. Korn-doffer and family have proven great acquisitions to Bay St. Louis and it is a pleasure to note they are such ardent boosters for this section of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Grace are at their attractive home in Waveland, entertaining guests, enjoying their lawn tennis court, one of the finest on the Gulf Coast, and their flower garden as well. Grace villa has both spacious and beautiful grounds and is one of the most valuable homes on the entire beach front between Waveland and Pascagoula. The Graces take great pride in their home and enjoy it immensely. They have been coming to Bay St. Louis and later to Waveland for many years and this section has no better friends.

With the early completion of the Old Spanish Trail from Bay St. Louis on to Pearl River section of the county a new revenue of pleasure travel will be opened up to our people. The public appreciates the enterprise and the liberality of the Board of Supervisors in this matter, with the assistance of the State Highway Department, which has matched much of the money spent. It is a far cry from the county roads of yesterday to the roads of Hancock today. Good roads not only stimulate more travel and accelerates business but brings business together, to say nothing of the enhancement of property along the line.

The local Masonic fraternity are rapidly putting their plans into fruition for a new Masonic building in Union street, to take place of the present frame structure. The new building, as already stated, will be constructed of brick and concrete and three stories in height. It will be built both substantially and ornamentally, and considering its prominent location, will add considerably to the city. It is planned to begin demolishing the present building during the fall months, allowing the tenants on the ground floor to spend the summer in their present locations and to seek new quarters until the new building will have been completed.

Mr. "Dad" Manieri says many automobile tourists are going through all the time. Many who remain overnight stop at "Dad's Hotel," and following their journey the day following. With the completion of the Bay St. Louis bridge there is no telling how many autos a day will pass through and fro. There is no estimating; however, it is safe to say the average will be over an average of a thousand a day, including both ways. The age is free bridges and toll roads. Every effort is made by the authorities to relieve travelers of all tolls. This is the right idea and will prove a big winner. No matter how small a toll curbs and restricts free travel.

The necessity of a municipally-owned pier for Bay St. Louis to serve as a resort for both winter and summer visitors has long been apparent, and would serve Bay St. Louis to advantage. Nearly every Florida resort bordering the seashore has built such a recreation place and needless to say proven tremendously popular. Since the city of Bay St. Louis has a $1,000.00 equity in the Hancock county ferry pier, Bay St. Louis, it would be well to make an effort to acquire every interest and all ownership involved and dedicate the use of the pier to the public. With improvements, such as pier house, etc., the purchase ought to prove as a valuable asset to this section and in time would pay handsome dividends. The history of St. Petersburg, Fla., tells of an humble beginning with one hotel and a municipal pier.

Property owners and other residents of Waveland are justly anticipating for the time when the Board of Supervisors will have completed the survey for the Waveland sea wall and roadway and the building of both an accomplished fact. The front road in Waveland is barely passable and it is with much difficulty residents get in and out with their cars. When it is considered that fully 90 per cent of the money spent by people residing in Waveland is distributed in Bay St. Louis it ought to be hoove our people to get busy and see how much we can expedite matters. The Bay back road is pretty rough and much of it lies in the municipality of Bay St. Louis. We feel sure our progressive mayor, Hon. G. Y. Blaize, and aldermen will in time put this back road in better condition. Bay St. Louis will do well to cater to Waveland.

A REMARKABLE FORD PROCESS.

Transforming steel ribbon into roller bearings is one of the interesting operations carried out in one department of the Highland Park plant of the Ford Motor Company in which a number of special Ford designed machines play an important part. Just how much activity there is in this department is shown by the fact that 125 miles of steel ribbon is used daily in the production of roller bearings at the present output schedule, permitting the assembly of 51,600 complete bearings every day.

The steel ribbon used is 5-32 of an inch thick and about half an inch wide. It is wound in Ford designed and built machines known as "winders" and when it emerges from these machines it is in the form of a heavy spiral rod with a narrow opening through the center. These rods are cut into proper lengths for the rollers and the short lengths are then hardened and tempered.

Grinding operations in which the rollers are ground to very close limits are carried out in other Ford designed machines, known as "centerless grinders," in which the precision necessary in the rollers is easily regulated.

The last operation before the rollers are finally assembled and welded is one through which every finished bearing should pass—the process of being demagnetized. Practically every bearing after having passed through the various manufacturing operations carries a certain amount of magnetism. If this magnetism (the rollers would have a tendency to pick up and retain small pieces of steel which might by chance get into the sleeve of the bearing. It is not likely, of course, that any harm would result if this magnetism were not destroyed, but the policy followed is another bit of evidence that the Ford Motor Company leaves nothing undone to insure the utmost of service in all its products.

The success of the Mary Jane train on the L. & N. is remarkable and is an index to the growth of the Coast and its popularity. It will be remembered when the Mary Jane was first put on it consisted of only two coaches. These were hand-filled. But gradually the accommodation of such a train leaving New Orleans in the forenoon and reaching along the Coast during the noon and afternoon hours grew to such a degree that the number of coaches on the Mary Jane is of such number as to make it a full-fledged train, as to length at least, and this both summer and winter. The L. & N. strick a popular key when it added this service. May it grow into a greater popularity.

The movement recently suggested by the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club that the L. & N. R. R. management be prevailed upon to resume its Wednesday excursions should be taken up vigorously next spring at an early date and every avenue of effort exerted. The L. & N. Wednesday excursion meant much to Bay St. Louis and the Gulf Coast and gave this section popularity.

Pains Very Severe
"I suffered from womanly troubles which grew worse as the months went by," says Mrs. L. H. Cantrell, of R. F. D. 9, Gainesville, Georgia.

I decided to keep on and give it a thorough trial and I did. I took in all about 12 bottles and now I am perfectly well. I do not suffer any pain and can do all my housework."

GENASCO Latite Shingles
Genasco Latite Shingles are not only weather safe, fire-safe and economical in cost, but they last for years with little or no cost for repairs.
That's because they are made of tough, long-fibred felt sandwiched between thick layers of Trinidad Lake Asphalt Cement—a product of the ages.
Equally important—you can lay them right over your old worn-out wooden shingles just as easily as over new boards. No ripping off of the old roof—no taking risks of damage by sudden storm.
Genasco Latite Shingles are locked tightly together—clamped firmly to your roof. No culling—no flapping in the wind.

REEROOF this time for all time

Genasco Latite Shingles are not only weather safe, fire-safe and economical in cost, but they last for years with little or no cost for repairs.

That's because they are made of tough, long-fibred felt sandwiched between thick layers of Trinidad Lake Asphalt Cement—a product of the ages.

Equally important—you can lay them right over your old worn-out wooden shingles just as easily as over new boards. No ripping off of the old roof—no taking risks of damage by sudden storm.

Genasco Latite Shingles are locked tightly together—clamped firmly to your roof. No culling—no flapping in the wind.

Made in three natural, unfading colors—red, green and blue-black. Come in and let us show you these wonderful shingles.
